At the Desk of: The Trumps

The Trump Organization’s main office used to fit nicely on the 26th floor of Trump Tower in Midtown until three of Donald Sr.’s children came on board. Now, Trump père is upstaged while Donald, Jr., 30, Ivanka, 27, and Eric, 26, sit in adjacent glass-walled offices. The spaces, which have sweeping Fifth Avenue views, are command central for an international development effort, with more than 15 projects either being built or planned. But the team isn’t ignoring their hometown, where they’re selling the 45-story Trump Soho, whose 400 hotel-condos are 60 percent sold after 15 months.

By C.J. Hughes and Jill Gardner

Photograph of Don Jr. as a kid with wrestling star Hulk Hogan. When you were a kid in the ’80s, Hulk Hogan was the biggest guy in the world,” he said.

“Dads Against Daughters Dating,” hat from a friend, in honor of his 18-month-old daughter, Kai. He and wife Vanessa have another baby due next month.

Deal toys for financing on Trump projects in Chicago, Las Vegas and other company development sites.

A Donald Trump bobblehead doll.

A model of the sphere-topped Baiterek Tower in Kazakhstan is a gift from the Central Asian country’s president.

These oversized scissors, used to cut the ribbon on the new Trump hotel in Las Vegas, are identical to a pair that Donald Trump, Sr. accidentally left in Las Vegas, are identical to a pair that Trump Sr. accidentally left in the bottom of a suitcase, prompting a minor incident in an airport.

These pink golf clubs are decorative, although Ivanka does hit the links a few times a year. “I try to rationalize that it’s market research,” she said.

The 2008 Arabian Property Award honors Trump’s Dubai project, developed in conjunction with local developer Nakheel.

There’s always at least one white orchid on the desk, a reminder of her 2005 vacation to Patagonia, where they grew.

A photo of a skydiving trip in Southern California after a recent season of Celebrity Apprentice, the NBC show created by the members of the 1961 Yankees (including Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra), was a gift from his father when Eric was 6.

Two awards from St. Jude Children’s Research Hospital to Eric’s two-year-old charity, which has raised $750,000 to help kids with life-threatening illnesses. “We have everything in the world, so we should be giving something back,” he said.

Michael Phelps, winner of eight gold medals in last summer’s Olympics, autographed this photo as a gift to Eric, a fan.

A photo of a skydiving trip in Southern California after a recent season of Celebrity Apprentice, the NBC show created by the members of the 1961 Yankees (including Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra), was a gift from his father when Eric was 6.

Hogan was the biggest guy we knew when we were a kid in the ’80s, Hulk Hogan. “When you were a kid with wrestling star Hulk Hogan, he was the biggest guy in the world,” he said.

“Dads Against Daughters Dating,” hat from a friend, in honor of his 18-month-old daughter, Kai. He and wife Vanessa have another baby due next month.

Deal toys for financing on Trump projects in Chicago, Las Vegas and other company development sites.

A Donald Trump bobblehead doll.

A model of the sphere-topped Baiterek Tower in Kazakhstan is a gift from the Central Asian country’s president.

These oversized scissors, used to cut the ribbon on the new Trump hotel in Las Vegas, are identical to a pair that Donald Trump, Sr. accidentally left in Las Vegas, are identical to a pair that Trump Sr. accidentally left in the bottom of a suitcase, prompting a minor incident in an airport.

These pink golf clubs are decorative, although Ivanka does hit the links a few times a year. “I try to rationalize that it’s market research,” she said.

The 2008 Arabian Property Award honors Trump’s Dubai project, developed in conjunction with local developer Nakheel.

There’s always at least one white orchid on the desk, a reminder of her 2005 vacation to Patagonia, where they grew.

A photo of a skydiving trip in Southern California after a recent season of Celebrity Apprentice, the NBC show created by the members of the 1961 Yankees (including Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra), was a gift from his father when Eric was 6.

Two awards from St. Jude Children’s Research Hospital to Eric’s two-year-old charity, which has raised $750,000 to help kids with life-threatening illnesses. “We have everything in the world, so we should be giving something back,” he said.

Michael Phelps, winner of eight gold medals in last summer’s Olympics, autographed this photo as a gift to Eric, a fan.